ORGANIZERS for your desk

When you need to keep tabs on everyone You'll never schedule two things at once with the BusyBodyBook Family Organizer. Each right-hand page has five columns (one for each family member), so you can list everyone's activities and avoid overlaps. The left-hand pages provide ample space for notes and to-do lists. Colorful stickies at the back of the book allow you to red flag important events ("Host playgroup"). ($20, www.busybodybook.com)

"I love the section where you can mark down next year's plans, like the flights I book well in advance for our family to visit far away in-laws."

Best for keeping the big picture in mind

Spending too much on birthday gifts? Can't remember the name of that nice mom you met at the park? Between its pages for creating a budget and spaces for jitting down the names of your kids' friends (and their parents), Amy Knapp's Family Organizer takes care of all that. It includes a weekly planner and tear-away grocery lists, plus pages just for babysitter instructions. ($15, www.thefamilyorganizer.com)

"For my son's first birthday, I used it to write down where to buy balloons, when to pick up the cupcakes, and what I needed from the grocery store. It was so helpful!"
